

Monday 14th January: Paul Bavister

Associate at BFLS Architects, Bavister is an architect and an active member of sound art group Audialsense. He teaches at the Bartlett.

Monday 21st January: Prof. Paul Whitty (tbc)

A Reader in Composition; Research Director for Film, Fine Art and Music; and Co-Director of the Sonic Art Research Unit at Oxford Brookes University.

Monday 28th January: United Visual Artists (tbc)

United Visual Artists (UVA) are an art and design practice based in London and working internationally. UVA create work at the intersection of sculpture, architecture, live performance and digital installation.

All lectures will start promptly at 6pm in the Lecture Theatre at Chelsea College of Art and Design.

Further lectures are planned, please check here for further information: www.baisd.wordpress.com

Spaces and Narrations Research Group,
Interior and Spatial Design, presents:

Sound as Measure

Sound as Measure is an interdisciplinary lecture series investigating the relation between sound and space. Rather than narrowing the field down, we are interested in diverse responses to the juxtaposition of the terms 'sound' and 'measure'. In particular, the series will address the notion of measuring or documenting through sound. This might range from reflexive notions of the space recording itself, to installations using sound where sound interrupts our experience of space, to more narrative based approaches. Invited speakers will include artists, architects and those involved in documenting sound.